We are constantly told that people illegally entering the US are only undocumented non-citizens migrating here and that only the federal government has jurisdiction over all immigration matters.

The political Left is in an information warfare (IO) campaign and is pushing propaganda in order to form our perceptions and beliefs that the border is simply a humanitarian issue, “only” about the poor and oppressed “trying to find work” and security and that Migration is a “human right.” This ignores a fundamental issue – national sovereignty.

REFUGEES. ASYLUM SEEKERS. FAMILIES. UACs

In the novel 1984, George Orwell came up with “newspeak.” Words were REDEFINED by the Party, to advance its ideology. The principle was that if something can't be said, it can't be thought.

Languages of countries under dictatorships, such as the Soviet Union or Germany, deteriorated under their respective regimes. “When the general atmosphere is bad, language must suffer,” Orwell writes in his essay, Politics and the English Language. “If thought corrupts language, language can also corrupt thought.”

Have the words, terms, and assessments along the border undergone a similar shift in definition? YES! How?

1. The Feds framed the operational environment as one only about immigration (humanitarian). To them, all “Border Security” metrics are simply immigration metrics.

Since the border crisis has been framed as immigration, the only metrics used to determine the security of the environment are the number of apprehensions, turn backs and “got-aways” (humans and drugs). Sources:

Also see this website <https://bordermetrics.com>

2. Now that the security of the environment has been framed and measured as only an immigration situation, the Feds then declared that they have primacy over all immigration matters (“Border Security”); therefore, States have no “authority” over “securing” their border.

<https://www.scotusblog.com/case-files/cases/arizona-v-united-states/>

3. Now that the Feds have framed the environment as immigration and declared that States have no AUTHORITY over Border Security (IMMIGRATION), they then change the definition of immigration and citizenship.

The Left has blurred the lines between illegal and legal immigration and citizen and non-citizen to include changing the name of those who come to the U.S. illegally.

Immigration laws are not necessarily binding anymore. Biden has willfully rendered federal immigration laws null and void. Ideology governs when a law is still considered a law.

As a result, those who have violated federal law and resided without legal sanction, who are then arrested and charged with crimes, are protected from federal immigration enforcement and are not subject to deportation. This is happening on the border and in the interior of the U.S.

Legal citizenship is no longer necessary to live indefinitely inside the United States, to obtain legal identification, to qualify for state and federal social services, or to cross at will – at any time or place along our borders – without legal permission.

In other words, we are returning to 19th Century practices, when the westward expansion of the United States, coupled with commensurately small state populations, often meant that there were no enforceable borders. On the relatively empty frontiers, few cared to ascertain the legal status of residents. But whereas in the distant past demography explained legal laxity, today the explanation is politics—or, rather, the doctrine of radical equality of result that seeks to erode any discriminating criteria concerning those residing in the United States.” - VDH

If the foundations to include definitions and enforcement of citizenship and immigration are being undermined, so too are its superstructures.

Our elites envision themselves as “citizens of the world” and, consequently, see their Americanism as passé. They prefer to respect the authority and reputation of transnational organizations rather than American legislative bodies and jurisprudence. They declare migration is a human right!

When you frame the border as only an immigration issue (crisis) and the only metrics used to determine the “security” of the environment are the number of apprehensions, turn backs & “got-aways” (humans and drugs), the Political left will be “justified” in stating that the border is simply a humanitarian issue, “only” about the poor and oppressed “trying to find work” and security because migration is a “human right.”

Therefore, when ALL the conservative pundits and Trump backed conservative THINK tanks declare what’s happening at the border as an invasion and a security threat (JoAnn’s note: The following link is from Ken Cuccinelli, Citizens for Renewing America, as he presented the plan to Grassroots America’s Texas Conservative Grassroots Coalition Leadership Summit on Nov. 20, 2021, in Tyler, TX),

<https://americarenewing.com/issues/policy-brief-how-states-can-secure-the-border/>

then the response of many resembles that of Nancy Pelosi’s: “The women and children at the border are not a security threat, they are a humanitarian challenge — a challenge that President Trump’s own cruel and counterproductive policies have only deepened.”

Since our definition of a “secure” border is defined by a decrease in our border (immigration) metric number, the Left’s propaganda infers that “securing” our border is separating families; denying global victims’ God-given entitlements and rights; that it’s a war on culture; it’s racially dividing the nation; it’s destroying global trade.

It’s declaring that if you are for border security or declare an invasion then you are a xenophobic White Nationalist, far right extremist, or a domestic terrorist.

The left and the Feds are going to use this to entrap conservatives.

Unfortunately, the people who comprise the two sides of the Border security definition debate will NEVER come together in a meaningful way to come up with a shared understanding and/or solutions. It always falls back to immigration and human rights.

High-ranking DHS officials make occasional visits to the southwest border, the sheriffs and ranchers in the region have their own associations, and other law enforcement agencies have task forces and working groups. But there has yet to be a national-level summit/conference where representatives from all these stakeholder groups—federal officials, mayors, state and local law enforcement officers, ranchers, concerned citizens, taxpayers – are all in the same place at the SAME TIME to hash out their different perspectives. No one can even begin to approach the challenge of defining the border region and solutions to it without hearing, and sufficiently acknowledging, all the different fears and successes and points of view that so many different border security players can bring to the table in such a forum.

Once this is accomplished, maybe our officials and officers can start working together (instead of against each other in the media spotlight) to acknowledge that the truth about the border lies somewhere in the middle of “it’s a war zone” and “to my knowledge, it’s not happening.”

We need the Ecosystem to fully understand the situation!

“If I had one hour to save the world, I’d spend 55 minutes defining the problem and 5 minutes solving it.” Albert Einstein

Einstein reminds us that a problem must be well understood before it can be solved. Following that line of thinking, the Army Design Methodology (ADM) advocates framing the problem and the operational environment before framing the solution.

So, until that “SOCCER MOM” views Mexican Cartels and an open border as a worse threat to her and her family than Islamic extremism, COVID, mean tweets, etc. – nothing will change!

“How we view the combat environment in large part determines how we operate in it.” U.S. Marine Corps MCDP 1-3

My broad policy suggestion starts at the very beginning with a change in their definition of “invasion” and who is invading.

Texas and Arizona won’t move forward because of one word, invasion.

This is not just a battle in the legal domain but the narrative domain as well

In their Plan: Invasion = Mass Illegal Immigration

There was already a battle between the federal government and the State of Arizona over its so-called anti-immigration law. <https://www.scotusblog.com/case-files/cases/arizona-v-united-states/>

In March of 2011, Arizona, in an effort to defend itself against an ongoing INVASION of illegal immigrants, sued the federal government for failing to carry out their responsibility to secure the U.S.-Mexico border. Arizona filed its countersuit after the Justice Department sued the state for attempting to control illegal immigration.

My Suggestion:

Flank Them.

Define INVASION as an invasion from foreign terrorist organizations and foreign actors and that we are at war with the cartels – not their commodities

To make the case that narco-terrorism crosses the line from crime to war, at the strategic level, it demands that the threat must extend beyond our border.

How?

Have a COMPLETE military assessment and war game effort on the border.

<https://warontherocks.com/2019/11/getting-the-most-out-of-your-wargame-practical-advice-for-decision-makers/>

a. It was haphazardly done in 2011 and not complete. Source:

https://www.texasagriculture.gov/Portals/0/DigArticle/1623/46982_Final%20Report-Texas%20Border%20Security.pdf

b. Asymmetric Warfare Group w/ Johns Hopkins University also conducted a war-gaming conference in 2011 in an attempt to defeat the two largest cartels at that time (Zetas and Sinaloa) and secure the border.

c. The 82nd Texas Legislature recognized this critical issue and the numerous accounts of cross-border violence and tasked the Texas Department of Agriculture via House Bill 4, to conduct: “an assessment of the impact of illegal activity along the Texas-Mexico border on rural landowners and the agriculture industry and working in conjunction with other appropriate entities to develop recommendations to enhance border security. Sources:

d. We need another bill that includes a way to help pay for and organize an assessment. Results of that assessment should include:

1. Texas defines what a secure and stable border is.
2. Texas establishes the proper framework to assess the border’s operational environment.
3. Texas establishes the metrics used to determine the security and stability of the environment.
4. Texas coordinates with other states like Ohio and creates an Interstate Uniformed Crime Report that will allow us to link ALL cartel-related activity throughout the U.S.

https://www.thecentersquare.com/ohio/ohio-house-wants-federal-government-to-label-drug-cartels-as-foreign-terrorist-organizations/article_5ae5be94-99a6-11e9-9f39-93648b41b1c2.html

5. With the assessment, the State of Texas can justify and legally DECLARE the Cartels as terrorist organizations. Just such a bill was recently tried by State Representatives Bryan Slaton and Kyle Biederman and denied by the TXLEGE!!

6. The assessment would show that Terrorist Organizations (Mexican Cartels) own and operationally control both sides of the border.

- a. That assessment will also show that each person illegally entering (between or even at the Ports of Entry) paid to be smuggled and/or trafficked across; therefore, becoming a Cartel commodity.
- b. Illegal immigration will then be defined as a cartel operation and then it would be dealt with as such – ENDING MASS MIGRATION.

7. Conduct a 3-day CCE, where those Subject Matter Experts who conducted the military assessment will host the event or summit, establish a shared understanding of the OE and then war game “Hackathon Style” to find solutions.

Sources: Steve Blank created a model to help the military solve complex problems at the speed, efficiency, and effectiveness of a startup.

<https://steveblank.com/category/hacking-for-defense/>

<https://www.h4d.us>

USSOCOM created their own program based off the success of the H4D, called SOFWERX.

<https://events.sofwerx.org/>

This event is where citizens, companies, celebrities (conservative pundits, influencers, politicians), local leaders, ranchers, etc. get together, get a shared understanding of the situation in its entirety, and have a “hackathon” to come up with solutions.

This would allow all of us to take ownership of the problem and consolidate/organize all efforts needed to solve these problems in a crazy and fun-filled event.

Attached you will find a brief concept of the event (CCE) based off SOFWERX's model. We are dealing with an insurgency, which is a population-centric form of political warfare. This is a grey zone conflict in which the cartels operate in the U.S. with such ambiguity that it makes it very difficult for our government to counter.

- b. Create a website that aggregates all the untold stories and truth the MSM refuses to cover. CITIZENS will hold the MSM and our public officials accountable by sharing the Truth.

<https://www.shortstack.com/blog/how-to-leverage-user-generated-content-for-your-business/>

<https://embedsocial.com/blog/user-generated-content/>

There are thousands of untold stories to share... some in real time. Curate the truth, share untold stories from ranchers, law enforcement, NGOs, and neighborhoods across the border and Texas, etc. in their fight against the cartels, trafficking, etc.

This would be similar to what was tried before in 2011. See these sources:

Here is a video from a rancher shared on that website: <https://m.youtube.com/watch?v=Oy9a-hk4Ev4>

8. Create a 391 Border Commission.

a. Coordinate with Dan and Margaret Byfield behind the Border 391 Commission in order to FORCE Abbott to ACT NOW.

<https://americanstewards.us/border-security-391-coordination-commission-formed-to-protect-the-southern-border/>

9. Texas officially declares war on the Cartels...

a. In Article I, Section 10, Clause 3 of the US Constitution, the States have the power to engage WAR when “actually invaded, or in such imminent Danger as will not admit delay.”

b. The designation of the cartels as terrorists and the declaration of war against them will allow us to stop ALL of their operations and networks along the border and throughout the US.

c. It will also identify all NGOs (non-governmental organizations) and foreign governments involved and legally declare them Enemies of the State for colluding with terrorists.

d. Texas must declare a war like we did in the early 1900s! Sources:

e. Continue to push for the invasion clause: (Hit the State and Feds with every asymmetric angle)

<https://americarenewing.com/issues/policy-brief-how-states-can-secure-the-border/>

<https://americarenewing.com/issues/5-key-claims-and-responses-regarding-how-states-can-unilaterally-secure-the-border/>

f. Influence Florida Governor DeSantis and other governors to invoke the Invasion Clause.

China: (Drug Warfare)

https://ndupress.ndu.edu/Portals/68/Documents/jfq/jfq-93/jfq-93_104_110_Pelleriti-et-al.please

<https://history.state.gov/milestones/1830-1860/china-1>

<https://history.state.gov/milestones/1830-1860/china-2>

Chinese leaders know the devastating effect narcotics can have. The opium wars of the 1800s involved thousands of tons of opium pouring into China, which addicted millions of Chinese, devastated their economy, and contributed to their military loss against the British Empire.

In 1927, China erupted in a civil war between the Communist Party and the Nationalist Party. Communist leader Mao Zedong instructed his subordinates to grow poppies, create opium, and traffic it into the non-Communist regions of China. As drugs became more readily available, more people readily used them. Opium weakened drug users, the people around them, their societies, their governments, and their militaries. The Communists then conquered the area—and took draconian measures to stamp out drug use, destroying poppy fields, imprisoning millions, and executing suspected traffickers.

After the Communist Party conquered mainland China in 1949, Mao actually nationalized opium production and started using narcotics as a chemical weapon to destabilize his rivals, primarily Japan and the United States.

During the 1950s and 1960s, Chinese Premier Zhou Enlai managed his nation's narcotics operations. In 1955, he allegedly told Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser that the Communists would use drugs against the morale of U.S. forces in Asia (Edward R. Slack, Opium, State and Society). Soviet statesman Mikhail Suslov said in 1964 that Zhou's strategy was "to disarm the capitalists with the things they like to taste."

Recent Chinese doctrine articulates the use of a wide spectrum of warfare against its adversaries, including the United States, said a 2014 report from U.S. Army Special Operations Command. "The People's Liberation Army (PLA) colonels Liang and Xiangsui outline China's vision on how China will attack the United States through a combination of military and nonmilitary actions...These methods include trade warfare, financial warfare, ecological warfare, psychological warfare, smuggling warfare, media warfare, drug warfare, network warfare, technological warfare, fabrication warfare, resources warfare, economic aid warfare, cultural warfare, and international law warfare." (Sept. 26, 2014).

By turning a blind eye, at the very least, to Chinese fentanyl traffickers, the Chinese government enjoys the benefit of waging drug warfare against the Americans and weakening them. A Chinese military attack using actual chemical weapons would risk an overwhelming military response but using the chemical weapon of illicit drugs is a subtle siege that tears at the fragile fabric of American society by attacking not its strategic vulnerabilities but its moral ones.

America's self-inflicted and China-facilitated fentanyl epidemic is ripping apart families, multiplying crime, crippling the economy, and destroying the minds of the next generation of Americans.
