Statement from Trey Trainor on behalf of Grassroots America – We The People

The following statement may be attributed to Trey Trainor, Partner with the Dhillon Law Group, Inc.:

“Grassroots America – We The People has been named as a defendant in the lawsuit filed by Ashley Taylor on or about April 8, 2026, in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Texas. However, the organization has not yet been served with the complaint.

These claims are completely frivolous and without any legal or factual merit. As Grassroots America – We The People has maintained, this whole debacle is a function of the Mayor and City Council’s refusal to place the requested policy changes on their agenda for public discussion and a vote. Their failure to act has instigated this problem. Grassroots America – We The People is a volunteer driven organization dedicated to advancing conservative principles and citizen engagement in the democratic process. It has done nothing more than exercise its First Amendment rights to free speech and petition the government—core protected activities that cannot form the basis of a civil rights violation.

We are confident that this baseless lawsuit will be dismissed at the earliest possible stage once the organization is properly served and appears in the case. We look forward to vigorously defending Grassroots America – We The People and securing a swift dismissal from this litigation so the organization can continue its important work without distraction.

Dhillon Law Group will be representing Grassroots America – We The People in this matter.”
